WOMAN'S RELIEF

A really healthy woman has little pain or discomfort at the menstrual period. No woman needs to have any. Wine of Cardui will quickly relieve those smarting menstrual pains and the dragging head, back and side aches caused by falling of the womb and irregular menses.

WINE OF CARDUI

has brought permanent relief to 1,000,000 women who suffered every month. It makes the menstrual organs strong and healthy. It is the provision made by Nature to give women relief from the terrible aches and pains which blight so many homes.

GREENWOOD, LA., Oct. 14, 1900. I have been very sick for some time. I was taken with a severe pain in my side and could not get any relief until I tried a bottle of Wine of Cardui. Before I had taken all of it I was relieved. I feel it my duty to say that you have a wonderful medicine.

THE MYSTERIOUS VOICE

Between the stories of Conductor Tom Pope and Sandy McTougal, backed by Sandy McTougal's friends, one gets a pretty good idea of Sandy's remarkable adventure with a voice or, as Sandy terms it, with the devil in a box.

Tom Pope is conductor and McTougal is baggage master on the Air line, which runs from the Atlantic ocean to "the middle of next week."

"Most astonishing thing, that hunt of Sandy's for a voice," said the conductor the other night.

"What was that?"

"Well, it was this: Sandy was lonely and miserable. Nobody talked to him or gave him a quarter for not smashing the baggage, so he took to brown studies and naps between stations. The night of his voice business his car was jamful of luggage. The more trunks Sandy has on board the crossover he gets. There was a camp meeting on a switch off track, and at the junction I picked up a lot of nobby passengers who were leaving for other places of amusement, and there was no end of trunks.

"McTougal got things into shape about 11 o'clock, I reckon, and as there's a part of the run where it's a good hour between stations he got ready for a snooze. 'He picked out the softest trunk in the pile on which to pillow his head, tilted back his chair with his feet on the rounds, pulled his hat over his face and went to sleep. How's that, Mac?"

"Quite keerect," responds the baggage master.

"Very well; then you tell it for awhile. I wasn't there, you know."

"It didn't seem's if I'd been asleep more'n a minute," began Sandy, "when there was a lively jump of the car, an' I sort of come to life with a jerk. At the same time I heard, as if 'way off, a noise like some one a-talkin'. But I thought 'twas a brakeman outside an' was jes' a-dozin' off ag'in when right at my car in a thin, sharp voice suthin' said, 'O Lord!'"

"I ain't no fool, I ain't," Sandy asserts, throwing back his head defiantly, "an' when that tin whisper comes into my ear I jes' opened my eyes, specin' to see some of the boys around. But not a livin' thing was visible. So I said to myself, 'An' off I goes a-noddin' an' dreamin'."

"Then ag'in I hears that voice. It says quite distinctly, 'I want to get out!'"

"Now, I wasn't a bit mistaken this time. I heard it. But 'fore I could get my wits together there was a yell soundin' 'way off."

"That's my death call," says I to myself, instantly callin' to mind fellows who had heard like sounds an' were dead in less'n a week. Then I says to myself, 'Sandy, don't be a fool! an' jumps to my feet as wide awake as I am now."

"It was a woman's squawk, an' I could have sworn to it. Then it sung out in tin trumpet style: "Help, help!"

"I hauled over the tool chest an' the water barrel an' the cupboard in the corner an' looked out on the platforms an' did everything a man could do under the circumstances to find out what was a-makin' of that fuss. I went to the side door to cool myself an' was a-fannin' my face when, blame me, if I didn't hear a cornet start off with the 'Rogues' March' an' a gruff voice foller it with: "In the midst of life we are in death."

"I yanked my head round an' didn't see nuthin' that wasn't there before. That threw me up my pins. Then a rooster crowed, an' a feller with a cold in his nose counted ten forward an' then backward, an' another cuss with a bullfrog voice ordered me: 'Wake up! The devil wants you! You needn't laugh, gentlemen, when I tell you I run, an' so'd you if you'd been thar. I was certain the devil had come for me, late, but sure, an' I didn't wait for him to ask for my ticket."

Tom Pope at this point broke into a stentorian laugh.

"If, gentlemen, you'd seen Sandy come flying into the car where I was sitting, you would never stop laughing. You may not believe it, but his brown face was as white as your shirt fronts, and his eyes were as big as billiard balls. He dashed down the aisle and whispered in my ear: "Tom, Tom, come with me!"

"What's the matter, Mac?" I said. "What ails you?"

"Tom, the devil's in my car. He's been a-cuttin' up for an hour, an' I'm most crazy. If you're my friend, come with me!"

"He wasn't drunk, because he doesn't drink. It wasn't religious enthusiasm, because Sandy had no religion. I almost believed he meant what he said and that he had been called for. I got up in a hurry and followed him.

"I hadn't more than got inside the baggage car when from among the trunks something sung out, 'Shut that door and pull down your vest!'"

"Sandy wanted to fight then," continued Tom. "He danced around that car, like a prizefighter in the ring until the voice cried out quite loud, 'Damnation!'"

"Pshaw!" I said to Sandy. "That is a boxed up parrot."

"An' then the parrot told you you lied," asserts McTougal. "Yes," says Tom cheerfully.

"An' then you said—do you remember what you said?"

"No, Mac. But wasn't I at your side when we got into the next coach a second later?"

"We came back with two brakemen," McTougal remarks, continuing. "One of them brakemen looked on top of the car an' under it an' in it. He stuck to it that there was a ventriloquist about, but gave that idee up when he couldn't find nobody."

"We flung those trunks right and left in a lively style," observed Pope, "but not a thing did we discover—no human living or dead thing—not a place from which the noise came. We were puzzled, you may believe, and if the search had stopped there the road might have warchoused that coach, for no railroad man would have traveled in a car that was haunted. But the end came. While we were looking in each other's face and frightened in being blocked in that sort of way the voice spoke again. It said very distinctly: 'Let me out! I am dying—dying!'"

"It was under my arm, the voice was," Sandy exclaims, "in a big trunk that had come from camp meeting. I sung out for Jake to run for a doctor, if there was one on the train, an' Tom an' me put that trunk on the floor as gently as if 'twas glass. 'Twas light enough. We thought the poor thing must be almost a skeleton. I got hold of the sledge hammer. 'Keep up your courage, ma'am, I shouted, 'an' we'll have you out in a jiffy!'"

"You should have seen Sandy at that moment," says Pope enthusiastically. "He looked a hero, every inch of him. He gave that hammer four sweeping swings. Crash! Crash! Rip! Tear! Off came the top, and it was flung clean across the car. A pile of light, fleecy stuff followed. A dozen faces looked anxiously into that trunk, expecting to see the body of a dying or dead woman. Sandy seemed beside himself with anxiety."

"We crowded around the trunk, and the doctor knelt down beside it. He pulled out a lot of rags very carefully, ran his arm down on a prospecting tool, lifted up a great wad of cotton, took a good long look under it, rose to his feet and began to curse everybody and call them all a pack of fools. Then he changed his tune and began to laugh. I asked him a little angrily what he was making such a fuss about and if he proposed to take out the body."

"Body! Body! Ha, ha, ha, ha! See here, gentlemen!" And he tossed out the cotton from the trunk, showing a funny looking machine at the bottom. "This is String-fellow's phonograph that he's had down to camp meeting," the doctor said. "He took one of Edison's concerns and rigged it up so as to go by clockwork. The shaking of the car set it in motion. It's been repeating, parrotlike, only what was told to it by the saints and sinners. Very simple, you see. I won't charge you anything for my visit, conductor—Good night." And off he went.

"Sandy, our friends here want to know how that dream of yours over that trunk ended."

"Oh, they do, do they? Waal, gentlemen, I had to pay the cost of that trunk, an' trunks cost in these times. It took a month's salary to do it, which isn't complimentary to the road. I learned one lesson. If I ever want to open any man's luggage in future, I'll smash it in professional style."

The Brain Rests in Sections.
 Only those who are troubled with insomnia and have experienced the sleepless fatigue of night after night of tossing upon the bed are in a position to wonder how it is that during the days that intervene the brain seems able to do its work without showing undue signs of fatigue. An English scientist, expert on brain diseases, holds that insomnia is not attended with such disastrous consequences as are commonly supposed. It is not so dangerous as the solicitude of the sufferer. He suggests that the brains of the literary men, who are the most frequent victims, acquire the trick of the heart, which takes a rest of a fraction of a second after each beat and so manages to get six hours' rest in twenty-four. Some brains, in cases of insomnia, sleep in sections, different brain centers going off in turn.

Bridges In China.

Most ancient Chinese bridges are only wide enough to allow the passage of two mounted men, railings on each side serving to insure the traveler's safety. It is thought highly probable that the missionaries who first reported on the early suspension bridges of China, and who, of course, gave some idea of their plan of construction, were really the cause of that unique species of bridge building being adopted by western nations.

A Peculiar River.

Unique properties are possessed by the river Tinto, in Spain. It petrifies the sand of its bed, and if a stone falls in the stream and alights upon another, in a few months they unite and become one stone. Fish cannot live in its waters.

Narrow Chests

The old theory that consumption was inherited is utterly discredited by modern medical science. The germs of consumption must be received from without. These germs are every where. They are constantly being received and cast out by the healthy system. It is the narrow chested whose inheritance is weakness who fall a prey to consumption because they are too weak of lung to resist and throw off disease.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes weak lungs strong. It cures obstinate deep-seated coughs, bleeding lungs, weakness, emaciation and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

"In the spring of 1900 I was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs, and became very weak and short of breath, lost flesh and had no appetite," writes Mr. E. L. Robinson of Xerxes, Tenn. "I was persuaded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first few bottles seemed to do me but little good. Thought I would soon be a victim of that dreaded disease, consumption, of which several of my family had died. Had almost given up in despair when my friends persuaded me to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' a fair trial. I commenced its use again and in a short time was feeling better. I continued its use until I had taken sixteen bottles. I weigh 160 pounds now, and when I commenced I only weighed 140 pounds. If any one has this symptom I will be pleased to answer any inquiry."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." Nothing "just as good." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from impurities.

GREAT BLANKET OFFERING...

For this Week On'y.

Index-Tribune.

SONOMA, OCTOBER 18, 1902.

THERE was a total eclipse of the moon Thursday night between 9 and 10 o'clock and with the street lights turned off the town was in darkness for several hours. This reminds us that for six months the street lights of Sonoma have been turned off by City Trustees Breitenbach and Poppe against the wishes of the taxpayers who are only too anxious to pay for them. The only relief they have had in the meantime has been the moon-light nights. Now it appears we are to be curtailed of these by eclipses. Can it be possible that Trustee Breitenbach is successfully evoking the aid of the heavenly bodies in having the moon turned off, too, in order to consign this town to darkness and despair?

For the first time a California-Stanford foot ball game is to be played on a university campus. The Freshman eleven will meet to-day on the University of California gridiron. Always hitherto the intercollegiate games, both varsity and Freshman, have been played in San Francisco. It is hoped that eventually all the intercollegiate contests will be played alternately at Berkeley and Palo Alto. The lack of proper seating accommodations, however, has thus far made it impossible for the "big game" to be played on the campus. The California Stanford varsity game is set for Saturday, November 8th. Each of the two universities now has for coaches only its own alumni. To have done away with the system of importing Eastern coaches has been commended as a great advance.

Stricken With Paralysis

Henderson Grinnett of this place was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. B. McDonald, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by F. Duhring.

The Size of Arcturus.

From the small value of the parallax found for Arcturus we cannot place very much reliance on its accuracy, but there can be little doubt that the distance of this bright star is really very great, and that consequently it is probably one of the most massive bodies in the universe.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Hair Restrained by Law.

Centuries ago for some reason it was thought necessary to introduce a kind of sumptuary law with respect to the length of garments and the length of the hair. Men were forbidden to wear their hair on their shoulders and women to wear the long plaits hanging loose. It was a mark of distinction for maidens to wear long hair, only the slave born having it cut short. So it is not likely that women of free birth were induced by any edicts to cut their hair loose, but only to confine it within reasonable bounds.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have. Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it. In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

MOONSHINE BRANDY.

Seventeen Barrels of the Stuff Found in a Hay Barn

A report from Santa Rosa says that on Tuesday last Revenue Officer Walter Price raided Manuel Constant's ranch near that city and unearthed seventeen barrels of brandy which had been hidden beneath bales of hay in a barn. The brandy was seized and taken to the bonded warehouse in Santa Rosa and placed in charge of Keeper T. J. McGimsey.

It seems that Constant's winery in Santa Rosa was recently destroyed by fire. At that time he had twenty barrels of brandy in his distillery, which although located near the winery escaped the flames. Constant claimed that he had moved the brandy from the distillery into the wine cellar just previous to the fire and that it had been burned up. This explanation of Constant's did not suit the local revenue officers and he had been kept under surveillance for some time by revenue officers Price and Driscoll, with the result that the hiding place of the brandy was located. Three of the twenty barrels are still missing though, but these have probably been sold.

Miserable Mothers.

CHILDREN ROBBED OF THEIR BIRTHRIGHT.

The most serious thing in life is maternity. The child who inherits weakness is handicapped for life in the struggle for existence. The weak and sickly mother surely devotes her offspring to misery and misfortune. The romantic idea of marriage is based on love and love alone. The scientific idea of marriage demands sound health as a basis of matrimony. The utter helplessness of love is written in a thousand experiences of young motherhood. The child, the mother would die for, cries in her arms, and she is too weak and worn to comfort it. She can do naught but weep in sympathy.

As surely as the most serious thing in life is maternity so the most necessary thing for the prospective mother is preparation. Preparation is possible. There is, in general, no need for the weakness and weariness so often associated with maternity. There is no need for the nervous anxiety, the prolonged birth pangs, and after-convulsion, so commonly experienced by mothers. In this day, even women understand the training necessary for athletic exercise. They know that to successfully sustain the strain of outdoor sports they must prepare themselves by training. And yet the average woman will face the great strain of maternity without the slightest preparation for the extraordinary event before her. Nerves, muscles are all to be submitted to an extraordinary strain and yet there is no attempt to fit them for the ordeal.

PROPER PREPARATION.

The fact needs to be impressed on every woman that she can prepare for the strain of motherhood as she can prepare for any other extraordinary demand to be made upon the vital forces. The nature of this preparation is well set forth in the following letter:

"I take pleasure in informing you of the birth of a boy in perfect health, on May 18th, 1899," writes Mrs. L. E. Corti, of Waterville, Pa., Box 25. "I cannot find words sufficiently strong to express to you my thanks, for the baby's coming was almost without pain, and when my husband arrived with the doctor the child was already born. The neighbors who were with me, and my husband and the doctor could not believe their eyes. Having suffered so much before I never believed myself able to be delivered of a living child. I tell everybody this happy event was due to the help of God and of your medicines. I shall never be without your medicines henceforth and shall never fail in recommending your 'Favorite Prescription.' I have used the medicines which you prescribed with the best results.

"Our hearts are full of gratitude to you for your medicines, which have given us the happiness of having a living child of our own, after so much suffering and disappointment."

"I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all young women who are in the same condition that I was in as one of the best remedies in existence. I have used eight bottles and find myself in perfect health. Accept my best wishes for your welfare to the end of your days."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the means of preparing thousands of women for happy motherhood. It prevents or cures nausea, tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It imparts great vitality and muscular vigor so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It gives the mother strength to give her child, and is an unrivaled tonic for nursing mothers.

WOMEN ARE SURPRISED

at the prompt and permanent benefit derived from the use of "Favorite Prescription." Its effects are not transient and temporary, but they conduce to a condition of womanly well-being, which seems often-times like a renewal of youth, so marked are its effects and so lasting the vigor which it imparts.

Mrs. Corin Siles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., writes: "I have been intending to write to you ever since my baby was born in regard to what you 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I am now. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 pounds, and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any uterine trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It corrects irregularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Thousands of women have been surprised at the cures effected by the patient and persistent use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine has cured diseases which have failed to yield to any other remedy. When doctors have declared a cure was hopeless, and when other medicines had been tried in vain, "Favorite Prescription" has brought about a lasting cure. There is no other put up medicine specially prepared for woman's use which has so wide and wonderful a cure of womanly diseases to its credit.

Sick people, especially those suffering from chronic diseases, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free and so obtain without charge the opinion of a specialist on their ailments. All correspondence strictly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute.

FREE TO WOMEN.
Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOMEY, BUT AMIABLE.

Ugly Men Who Were Able to Fascinate the Fair Sex.

One of the men who possessed the lady killing faculty to a most surprising degree was Napoleon Bonaparte's rival in the affections of Marie Louise, the infamous and all powerful Neipperg. He was an ugly creature, with small abilities and yet smaller fortune, and he had broken many hearts about the Austrian court before Marie Louise saw and fell furiously in love with him. With everything to lose and nothing to gain by her encouragement of the man, she left no stone unturned until she was able to make herself Neipperg's wife.

In the eyes of the world it was a terrible degradation for the widow of the French emperor to become the wife of an Austrian count, but she cared not a whit what the world said, as was the case with the woman who ran after the ugly spendthrift Wilkes and the mad Duc de Richelieu.

Wilkes was famous in his day all over England not only as lord mayor and chamberlain and a very loud talking patriot, but as the ugliest man of his time and the most admired by the women. He flouted and ill-treated all of them with the exception of his daughter, but it had not the desired effect of cooling their affections.

As to the Duc de Richelieu, though men could not tolerate him, when he was shut up in the Bastille crowds of women, old and young and rich and poor, used to collect every day at the hour when he took his exercise on the parapets and adore him from a distance and deplore the incarceration of so charming a person.

Theodore Hook was another ugly man who was irresistible to the fair sex, for it is proved clearly that when a man is agreeable to women they care not in the least what his personal appearance may be. List proved this.

When an old man, with a hard, ugly face, women begged permission to kiss his ugly hands and raved and sentimentalized over him as though he were Adonis' self. Dozens of schoolgirls and countesses who worshipped at his shrine cared not a pin for his music nor understood a note of it, but were keenly alive to the charm of his personality, which no woman, so far as we know, was ever able or willing to withstand.

A Remedy For Legal Rust.

The young lawyer was flourishing in a tangle of his own making in a case he had before a supreme court justice, who is known, says the New York Tribune, as the humorist of the bench.

The justice listened attentively to the young man's efforts to disentangle himself, but after awhile he was visibly impatient, and the young man perceived that the time had come for excuses. So he began:

"You see, your honor, to be perfectly frank with you, I am the least bit rusty on methods of procedure in cases of this nature. I trust that your honor will bear with me and advise me in the matter."

"Why, certainly," replied the justice, smiling. "I will be only too glad to advise you."

The face of the young lawyer began to brighten, only to be shrouded in gloom a moment later, when the justice added:

"My advice to you, young man, is that you go and study law."

Both Made a Confession.

When he made his customary call upon the object of his affections the other evening, the young man displayed more than the ordinary nervousness that usually marked his bearing.

"What's troubling you, George?" asked the lovesick maiden, noticing his condition.

"Oh, I have something to confess to you and I don't know how it will affect you."

"Well, never mind. I'm prepared for anything."

"Clara, I am a sonnambulist." "Oh, phew; don't worry! My father is a Unitarian, my mother's a Congregationalist and I'm a hard shell Baptist, but I don't mind changing."—Exchange.

Ancient Ladies' Tailors.

There were, it seems, "ladies' tailors" and tailor made dresses in the days of Queen Elizabeth. A contributor of the Tailor and Cutter has been visiting Cappon and was shown a letter written by the ill-fated Amy Robsart shortly before her death at Cunnor House, which Sir Walter Scott describes in "Kenilworth." It was to a Mr. William Edney, tailor at the Tower, and refers to the alteration of a gown he was making for her and contains a promise to see him paid. The unfortunate lady died before the gown was finished, and the poor tailor had to wait for five years before he was paid by the Earl of Leicester.

NEGROES WITH A BROGUE.

Curious Linguistic Phenomenon in West Indian Island.

The islands of Martinique, St. Vincent, Barbados, Montserrat, St. Lucia and Guadeloupe, besides affording an illimitable field for the study of seismology, constitute in themselves one of the greatest ethnological curiosities of the world, so that he who visits these islands may stand prepared for a surprise at every turn. One of the strangest ethnological freaks is to be found on the island of Montserrat. This island is one of the oldest British colonies in America and was first settled by Irish emigrants from Connought. Subsequently negro slaves were introduced in the island, whose descendants form the bulk of its present population, for here as elsewhere in the Antilles the white man seems to have died out and disappeared, leaving the negro in undisputed possession of the soil.

The negro slaves imported from Africa in 1648 learned the English language from the Irish settlers and planters, and in consequence they do this day speak the Irish brogue with the same breadth of accent as the people of Kerry or Donegal. An amusing and true story is related of an Irish settler who some few years ago engaged to an English firm having large sugar plantations in Montserrat to go to that island in its employ. The ship on which he made the voyage having reached the roadstead of the capital of the colony, a number of negroes swarmed about the ship in their lighters soliciting carrying custom.

One of them addressed the Irish settler in his native Connought brogue. The latter in surprise asked, "Thunder and turf, how long hav yez been here?" The negro, thinking he meant the length of time he had been living in that particular part of the island, replied, "Three months." "Three months?" exclaimed the Irishman, "Three months, and so black already? Be the powers O'll not sthaby among yez another day!" The Irishman, in spite of all explanation and persuasion, returned to Ireland, declaring that $1,000 per day would not suffice to induce him to remain in a country where the sun's rays were powerful enough to burn a white man black in less than three months.

The First Fire Extinguishers.

The earliest mention of fire extinguishing apparatus of any kind is found in the building accounts of the city of Augsburg, Germany, for the year 1518. In these they are denominated "instruments for fires" and "water syringes useful for fires." Anthony Blatner, a goldsmith at Friedberg, is credited with being the inventor and manufacturer, he having at that time been a citizen of Augsburg.

These syringes must have been of considerable size, as they are described as being mounted on wheels and worked by levers. Caspar Schott, a noted Jesuit, gives an account of one built at Nuremberg in 1657, the largest squirting engine of which there is any record. It was mounted on a sledge 10 feet long, 4 feet in width and drawn by two horses. It had two working cylinders placed horizontally in the cistern, which was 8 feet long, 4 feet high and 2 feet wide. Twenty-eight men were required to work it, and it was capable of throwing a jet of water one inch in diameter to a height of eighty feet.

The Teeth.

To keep the teeth perfectly clean brush thoroughly night and morning, using a pure dentifrice, and rinse the mouth after every meal with an antiseptic lotion, also using the quill toothpick to remove particles of food. The brush should be used up and down on the teeth, as this allows the bristles to pass between the teeth, and it is also less likely to injure the gums. The inside of the teeth should receive the same treatment as the outside, and the contact surface of the molars should be thoroughly scrubbed. Never pick the teeth with any metal implement; do not crack nuts with them or bite threads. Extremes of temperature in food or drink should be avoided. Hot soup should not be followed by iced water or ice cream by hot coffee.

Enrouty Pronounced Darby.

Pronunciation of English proper names is a marvel of inconsistency, but there is an American family, Virginian, that outstrips such English vagaries as Cholmondeley, pronounced Chumly, and Beauchamp pronounced Buncham. The Virginia name is spelled Enrouty and pronounced Darby. The story goes that a certain country squire of the name of Darby was left a fortune upon the condition that he change his name to Enrouty. He agreed to do this and thereafter wrote his name Enrouty. His friends, however, continued to call him Darby, and the custom has been handed down from generation to generation.
